

Olympic Club Running Contest

The Outrigger's chief running enthusiast, Billy Brooks, has urged the Club's consistent runners to sign up in a competition sponsored by the Olympic Club of San Francisco to encourage and publicize the sport of running. There will be a competition between participating Clubs on the mainland and the Outrigger Canoe Club here in Hawaii, to see how many miles each club's runners can chalk up during the month of October. There will be appropriate prizes for different categories.

Billy achieved a sign up of more than 40 serious runners, both men and women, young and old. In the middle of the first week the results for the Outrigger participants really look impressive. Kimo Austin for one has been running 10 to 12 miles a day and Billy Brooks is close to him. The Outrigger should show well in this event.
