

the Outrigger

February 1985

Dr. Jack Scaff, father of the Honolulu Marathon Clinic, proudly displays his race number. Each year he has worn the corresponding number of the race. This year it's #12 for the 12th year.

Long before dawn the club runners gather to limber-up and talk story on Rudy Choy's catamaran conveniently docked pier-side, a few steps from the starting line.

Photos by Jan Newhart, Di Guida and Gerri Pedesky

The Big Run '84

Norm Dunmire

Kisi Haine at the 22-mile mark.

The 12th annual Honolulu Marathon was a wet one for our runners, aid station workers and supporters at the finish tent. OCC was well represented (see list below). We tried to get as many times as possible; if you were omitted, leave your name and time at the desk for The Outrigger editor and we'll include you next month.

It was easy to spot the OCC runners on the route, thanks to the new gear selected by the running committee (thank you, Diane Stowell). Big red OCC letters on a field of white for the singlets, and large letters in white on red shorts, could be seen well in advance to enable our fans to shout, "Go OCC," "Alright Outrigger," and other spiritually enhancing cheers.

One luxury that OCC runners enjoy is Rudy Choy's boat hospitality dockside at Pier 10. After arriving in the rain, there was a warm shelter, a private small room for last-minute offerings, hot water for coffee or tea, and some nice friends to take a picture and shout good luck.

The Outrigger aid station, capably organized, as usual, by Cline Mann, was by far the best. A huge banner across the street let everybody know, coming and going, who was there. No other aid station could command the entire street the way Outrigger did. Also, the red T-shirts of the volunteers were a friendly sight. Most aid station workers are dressed in some type of theme shirt or color, so it was especially nice to have the Outrigger show its colors. We recommend this be done every year. Those of you who stayed home because of the rain missed seeing our Club helpers in their finest hour.

At the finish line, Robin Smith and her crew of Stowell, Mehlberg and Mehlberg had an impossible time getting the tent shelter up because of the wind, and eventually gave up. The food was good, the weather conditions were not. But thank you, anyway, from those who got their legs and feet massaged, and a cold one pressed into their tired hand. It really is nice to have a place to go, and know that when you get there, they will shout for joy that you arrived!

Thank you to everybody. From our support crews to our Number 1 aid station to our wonderful runners.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

9

Marathon Aid Station

1. They arrived before dawn to set up the 8/23 mile aid station. Early birds pose with new club banner and OCC T-shirts. 2. They set up cokes, 3. And dispensed them! Ruth Updegrove, an old hand at the aid station, says she wouldn't miss it for the world! 4. Aid Station Director and Major Domo Cline Mann. He was everywhere at once. 5. They came in all ages. Michelle Larkin and J.J. Riley. 6. Gay Austin passes out cokes. 7. Board of Directors got into the act, Kent Giles hands out iced sponges. 8. Peter Balding gives encouragement. 9. Stephanie and John Marrack help with the huge task of cleaning up 50,000 paper cups.

8

We finished! Allen McWayne, Robin Smith, who supervised the finisher tent, Fred Rainey, who ran his 1st marathon, and Jack Pedesky.

Barbara and Rowlin Lichter

Wendell Brooks, Jr.

Ken Brown

The tent that wasn't! OCC finishers got a rubdown and food and drink at the OCC tent area. Due to high winds the tent came down.

OCC Runners & Times

Dave Monahan	4:28	Jack Scaff	4:19
Kisi Haine	4:25	Ron Lichter	4:01
Norm Dunmire	4:23	Barb Lichter
Ken Brown	4:19	Jim Foytich	5:37
Mike Burson	3:52	Nancy Neville
Allen McWayne	4:22	Peter Butler (guest)	5:32
John Butler	4:47	Pete Tica (employee)	5:19
Rob Farquhar (guest)	5:01	Bill Stricklin
Dave Ball (guest)	5:04	Kerry E. Corr (guest)	3:51
Tommy Holmes	3:12	Donna Scaff	4:59
Jack Pedesky	5:19	David Cheever	4:12
Emary Lucas	4:06	Ron Heifner (guest)	3:28
Gene Twiner (guest)	5:04	Sandra Stanley	3:22
Fred Rainey	5:50	Evan De Harné	2:38
Gerry DeBenedetti (racewalker)	5:41	John Kelleher	4:15
Phil Alcosiba (employee)	DNF	Jim Stahl	3:43

Good Neighbor

Allan Lum, manager of the Waialae Country Club, is a good neighbor! When asked by the PR Committee if he would please clean up the outside of the fence along the freeway before the Marathon, he gladly consented. Even though this is an area that the golfers never see and the maintenance people rarely go, Lum agreed to help out the OCC runners and their 10,000 companions on December 9 by trimming the bushes. Mahalo, Waialae Country Club.

Marathon Brunch

The Club's pre-marathon brunch was, as always, well attended and well done. Sponsored by the Running Committee, the runners and friends were welcomed by Robin Smith, guest runner Harold Chapon (honored "older runner"), and race director John Kelleher. Diane Stowell with Twain and Jan Newhart.

Polly Burson, Carolyn Wilbur and Mike Burson.