

THE rain, which has blessed the earth mightily lately, lifted its sheets of mist long enough on Saturday afternoon, for the inauguration of the Woman's Auxilliary of the Outrigger Club to be a decided success. Mrs. F. M. Swanzy, the president of the club, and really its promoter, poured tea into the dainty blue and white cups which she presented to the club. There were a goodly number of representative women present who quite enjoyed the pleasant experience and the artistic grass house with its sanitary bath rooms and attachments, were highly praised. The stone lanai, where the tea was served, presented a gala appearance, for wreaths of flowering shrubs decorated the doors, and vases of bright-hued nasturtiums added much to the effect. Cakes, sandwiches, and most delectable tea went on throughout the afternoon, and a charcoal brazier, ever ready, added its quota of comfort to the event. Many of the dainty appurtenances were given by members of the club. Throughout the afternoon, the young girls were constantly using the bath house and then coming and going signified the usefulness of the scheme for comfort and pleasure. Chaperones are already in attendance, and a man on the premises is always ready to boil water for the cup of tea, so refreshing after a bath. Among those present on Saturday were Mrs. F. M. Swanzy, Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Galt, Mrs. Ralph Forster, Mrs. Boynton, Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, Madame Frique, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Ivers, Sr., Mrs. Wakefield, Miss Gras, Miss Boynton, Miss Fairlie, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Jr., and others.
