MARATHON RUN TO HALEIWA HOTEL

Nigel Jackson called around yesterday to say that he and A. K. Vierra had taken up the matter of a Marathon run over the old route to Haleiwa, and that the same would be a go on Sunday, March 20.

"We have seen the Mayor," said Jackson, "and he has offered a splendid trophy for the race. We have reason to believe that Manager Kimball, of the Haleiwa hotel, will also put up a cup and other trophies will be made up by subscriptions in the city. In place of having only one or two prizes, it will be our purpose to offer trophies to as many as the first ten men to finish. That will be an inducement for a large number to go the entire distance.

"The race will start from Aala park and finish at Haleiwa hotel, going through the difficult Kikapu gulch which proved the undoing of so many runners in the last Marathon. I believe it will be a good run. Most of the best long-distance men have already expressed a desire to come in, and there will be a lot of new talent. As for me I am in the pink of condition and will make the race of my life."

SURFING PROGRAM MINUS THE SURF

The surfing program at Waikiki on Sunday afternoon was largely a failure on account of an absence of tide or surf. As the tide movements are well understood, this would appear to have been a grievous blunder on the part of the program makers. The tourists of the steamer Cleveland, for whose benefit the sport had been arranged, were out in force and some 2,000 city folk lined the beach. The surfers were also there—but the surf was not there and had no intention of being there at that hour, which the surfers and the old-timers should have known.

A few stunts were attempted by members of the Outrigger Club and some young ladies made a noise like unto mermaids at play in a listless surf—but altogether everybody felt like apologizing to everybody else for the show.

But there was a good deal to see and the visitors seemed to enjoy themselves anyway. The Moana was never so attractive and the home of the Outrigger Club was in holiday trim and spirits. An April climate and summer seas in Mid-Winter was something, at least, left upon the minds of the city's guests.
