

OUTRIGGER CLUB PLANS BIG TIME

The Outrigger Club is at it again. That means that there will be a big feast and entertainment, with a surfing carnival thrown in, at Waikiki, the afternoon and evening of June tenth being set for the occasion, the piece de resistance of which will be the McRae Stock Company, the Opera house being closed for that night and the company assisting the Outriggerites. It is needless to say that the McRae's come very near owning the club after such a generous offer, there isn't a canoe on the beach that isn't their's for the taking.

About six hundred dollars worth of tickets have been subscribed for during the past few days by club members, and the public will also be en-are to be followed by a chowdervq shr bers, and the public will also be in-tertainment and dance. There will be room for all as the Seaside and Moana hotels have offered their dancing halls and the big forty by eighty foot lanai of the Outrigger club will be completed in time for the occasion. A night surfing carnival is contemplated, the surfers having at last discovered a light that may be attached successfully to the bow of the board and then there will be a procession of illuminated canoes.

Perhaps the best features will be announced later, as the ladies are now preparing to take hold. The club hopes to raise a thousand dollars for improvements out of the entertainment. The McRae's say this would be a good house for Honolulu, and they ought to know.
