

Outrigger Coings.

The affair at the Outrigger grounds on the afternoon and evening of June 10 is to be a social event. There will be dancing at both hotels and on the new lanai of the club. The ladies of the women's auxiliary will assist, and a big success is assured. As planned at present, the ball will be set rolling about four in the afternoon, with a surfing contest and a regatta. The band will be there, and at 5 o'clock, tables will be set for a thousand in the old and new lanais, and the chowder will be served. It is also hoped that the young ladies in the women's auxiliary will contest for one of the Clark cups, to be given to the best surfrider. Miss Josephine Pratt and Miss Carroll Low have already entered for this contest, which will make them late for the chowder—but, then, the chowder will be served from five to eight, at which hour the tables will be cleared from the floor and dancing will begin. There is some talk of a vaudeville, at the Seaside for those who are not dancers. The McRae Stock Company will be present, having generously offered to close the Opera House for that one night in order that they may assist at the Outrigger carnival. It will probably be 9 o'clock before the illuminated canoe carnival will begin. A score or more of gaily-lighted canoes will be paddled around the bay in procession, surf in from the reef and be taken over the bar into the lagoon. Boys on surfboards will disport in the waves with signal lights fixed to the bows of their boards to cast a ruddy glare on the riders. The grounds of the Outrigger Club, it is needless to say, will be brilliantly lighted with colored lanterns. There will be booths and bowers everywhere. The ladies of the women's auxiliary who will have charge of this portion of the entertainment are Mrs. Soper, Mrs. J. A. Gilman, Mrs. L. L. McCandless, Miss Charlotte Hall, Mrs. Eben Low and Mrs. Dr. Hobdy.
