

KONA CREW

NOT COMING

Two Noted Canoe Crews Out of Regatta Day Sports.

Much to the disappointment of the followers of the Regatta day sports the news comes that the famous Prince Cupid Kona crew is not coming to Honolulu to compete with the other canoe entries in the six- and four-paddle canoe races on Regatta day.

This crew has made a good showing every time they came down here and have won many events.

Another crew which will not be seen in the races as in the past will be the famous Kamehameha Aquatic crew. The boys claim that the other crews do not want to compete with them on account of not being members of the A. A. U.

In the past the six-paddle canoe race has been a very interesting event among the Hawaiians especially and they will feel badly when they hear that two of their native crews will not compete unless plans are made different.

Now the only crews that may be seen in the races on Regatta Day are the Hui Nalu and Outrigger crews. These two should make the event an interesting one.

Prince Cupid stated that there was no strong rival here for his crew so he did not think it worth while bringing them down.
