

PRACTICE BY THE ROWING CREWS

The canoes were out and about on the harbor yesterday afternoon before any of the rowing crews turned out.

Both the Kakaakos and the Electrics, so called because several of the crew are employed at the government electric works, took useful spins, and in them the Hui Nalu, Outriggerites and Kamehamehas will find worthy opponents.

The Electrics are using the Wall canoe, Hana Keoki. Their make-up is as follows: Pahukula, stroke; A. P. Ryan, 2; Cloud Haupu, 3; Tom Mahuka, 4; J. K. Pahai, 5; Bill Keawemahi (captain), steerer.

This crew has been practicing only five days, but is already showing excellent form.

With five entries in the six-paddle championship race, one of the most interesting contests in years should result, notwithstanding the absence of the Konas, due to it being an off year in politics.

The Hui Nalu and the Outrigger Club's crews are practicing off the Moana Hotel, and the Kamehameha Aquatic Club's aggregation are doing their training stunts on the waters of Kalihi Harbor.
