Once again the stage is set for the great aquatic carnival of Regatta Day. This yearly celebration, inaugurated by good King Kalakaua, who, whatever his failings may have been, was certainly a sportsman, is undoubtedly the most popular sports holiday of the whole year.

Regatta Day is par excellence the people's holiday, for they can enjoy without cost. Whole families go down to the wharves or other good viewpoints, taking their lunches with them and picnicking during the interval to their hearts' content and pleasure.

The harbor will be given over to sport tomorrow. Vessels in port will dress ship in honor of the occasion.

Once again the crimson and blue banners of the Myrtle and Healani rowing clubs will be borne in contest on the tide, and this year the yellow emblem of the Puunene Athletic Club, newcomers at the sport, will add variety to the competitive color scheme.

The canoe races promise to be almost as interesting as the barge events, and have been very well entered. The race for the six-paddle championship should furnish some-
