Loot Pockets While Owners Are Basking On Beach

Thieves were busy at the Outrigger Club Sunday afternoon, and several of the members lost small sums ranging from fifty cents to six dollars and a half.

This is the second time that some one has been on a looting foray in the bath houses of the club. Neither time however, did the members lose much money. In one case the club thief made way with six dollars belonging to one of the members who was basking on the sand by the club house, but left ten cents in the pocket that had contained the rest of the cash.

Other members lost all the change they had in their pockets at the time, and one or two were forced to borrow money with which to get home.
