

East of Palalove our rifle guards attacked and recaptured height and maintained it against several strong attacks.

TUESDAY'S FIGHTING

GERMAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 21.—Western arena, Crown Prince Rupprecht's front: Our artillery has won noticeable effects today in fighting the enemy. A lively hostile fire was directed against our positions at several places. There were no infantry engagements.

In Champagne and Meuse sector: Some artillery fighting revived.

Eastern arena, Prince Leopold's front: Nothing important.

Archduke Carl's front in the Carpathians: A patrol enterprise on the Lubova sector carried out as planned; 40 prisoners brought in. Russian advance failed. On the east edge of Transylvania only minor fighting.

Last night, north of Kampolung, we dispersed several Russian attacks. In Alt Valley we captured some important towns and entrenched heights. Our infantry is before Craiova, up to now the seat of the chief command of the Rumanian first army.

In the Balkans, von Mackensen's front: Nothing important except artillery fire. Constanza and Czernavoda shelled.

Our flyer squadrons bombarded a transportation establishment near Bucharest.

Macedonian front: Between Lake Presba and the Czerna river the enemy has been reaching with vanguards for German-Bulgarian positions. Serbian advances in some places on Moglena front, prepared by strong fire, failed. On the flooded Struma plain only engagements of reconnoitring detachments.

OUTRIGGER LETS NEW BATH HOUSE CONTRACT; $1265

Announcement was made Wednesday by Sec. J. Ashman Beaven of the Outrigger Canoe Club that at a meeting of the club's board of directors last night the plans and specifications drawn up by one of the club's members, S. M. Starratt, for the additional bathhouse for women guests were adopted and the contract for the structure awarded to the contracting firm of Knaack & Company.

Work of erecting the building, which will be on the club's grounds mauka-Waikiki of the women's lanai and nearly on the site of the old dancing pavilion which burned down a few years ago. The contract price is $1275.

Plans and specifications drawn up by Starratt, who is a subinspector of the United States navy and is superintendent of construction at Pearl Harbor, call for 26 dressings rooms and 103 lockers. There will be two showers and two toilets. The building will be 50 feet long and 20 wide, one side facing toward the lagoon on the Waikiki side of the Outrigger grounds.

The British government has requisitioned leather and served notice that "sale, removal or secretion without war office consent constitutes an offense."
