

AQUATICS GOING AHEAD AT CLUB

Signatures of Outrigger Canoe Club members to agreements to enter the club's proposed diving and swimming class, take instruction in water sports and represent the club in future aquatic competitions, are being obtained today by six members of the Outrigger, preliminary to another meeting to be held at the club grounds at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A statement issued today by Secretary J. Ashman Beaven of the club tells of the meeting held Monday night to organize aquatic sports and secure material to enter future meets. The secretary's statement says:

"The heavy storm of Monday evening naturally interfered with the attendance but those who were there were enthusiasts. I was still more impressed by the fact that Messrs. W. T. Rawlins, John Soper and L. Fullard Leo, representing the Hawaiian Association of the A. A. U., showed up. They surely must take a deep and unselfish interest in amateur sports when they will forego the comforts of home and brave such elements as visited us Monday evening.

"The meeting was a good one, even if it was small, and the talk given us by Mr. Rawlins outlining the scheme for successful organization and the pitfalls to avoid was splendidly put and right to the point. It was highly appreciated by those present and the ideas expressed by Mr. Rawlins will be passed along to other members of the club by those present. Messrs. Soper and Leo also gave good talks along general lines, Mr. Soper talking more especially on the rules of the A. A. U. regarding registration, transfers and so forth.

"All present were heartily in favor of the Outrigger Club organizing a swimming and diving class, and six of the members present, Messrs. Maurice Melanphy, Bob Mackenzie, J. W. Pratt, Roswell P. Rogers, Sam Stacker and P. M. Smoot volunteered to secure signatures of members not present to the enclosed agreement, and they are now doing this."
