

HARMONY IN SIGHT FOR OUTRIGGER CLUB

Everyone seems to be young with enthusiasm nowadays at the Outrigger Club helping the younger set getting pledges for the union ticket with H. B. Campbell at the head and Dad Center as a climax. It looks now as though the ticket would have the unanimous vote expected, for much more than half the entire club membership has signed up for the harmony campaign.

Some of the pledges given by the proposed officers are, that the women's guest house will be enlarged, that canoeing will be supported and a series of new rafts set out toward the surf, while the work of the club will be done on the Outrigger grounds and the directors' meetings held there.

Surfing is at its best now and there is a regiment of youngsters home from school on the mainland who vie with those who have learned to ride the festive surfboard since the others went away.

Last night the last Outrigger dance of the season crowded the big lanai as well as the grounds, while moonlight surfing was one of the features of the occasion.
