

Letters from the People

Editor Advertiser—Referring to the article published in this morning's Advertiser in which it is stated that certain candidates for election at the Outrigger Canoe Club meeting "repudiate" the so-called opposition ticket, I notice that the statement posted on the club grounds is signed by Messrs. Mighton, Thompson, Deverill and Center.

As all four of these gentlemen were nominated for office by the nominating committee, and as they have all accepted such nomination, I fail to see any feasible or reasonable ground for their objecting to a large number of members endeavoring to secure their election. Is it not something new for a candidate to "repudiate" the efforts of his fellow members to try to elect him?

Messrs. Mighton, Thompson, Deverill and Center are all good men and I feel that I have a right to vote for them, and to urge my friends to do likewise.

S. M. STARRATT.
