

CAMPBELL AGAIN CHOSEN HEAD OF OUTRIGGER

The Outrigger Canoe Club's election last night was a landslide for the "Harmony Ticket."

After the smoke cleared away it was found that H. B. Campbell had been re-elected president by a majority of 136 votes. He got 226 while his nearest opponent, J. Ashman Beaven, received 90.

Not one of the "independent ticket" candidates nosed in. The election resulted as follows: H. B. Podmore received 228 votes for chairman of the order and entertainment committee, against 84 for Charles King; Herman von Holt got 213 for director, against 114 for F. G. W. Cooper; and J. M. Westgate, also director, polled 194 votes where his opponent, A. J. Porter, got only 93.

Guy H. Buttolph won the vice presidency again without contest; Percy Deverill was elected secretary, to succeed J. Ashman Beavens, who declined to run again, after several years of hard work in behalf of the club; L. C. Thompson was re-elected treasurer, and Dr. F. C. Mighton was chosen chairman of the house committee, succeeding E. M. Ehrhorn, who declined the renomination. The retiring chairman of the order and entertainment committee, Warren Dease, also refused renomination.

Two outstanding features of the election, which was the hottest in the club's history, as seen by various members, are first, that those attending and voting last night included members whose community standing is of weight and who want the club to continue to hold the prominent place it now occupies in the community of life of Honolulu; and second, that the re-election of H. B. Campbell as president represents a vote of confidence in his administration and policies.

Attendance at the election broke all records. Fully 250 men, from the oldest kamaainas down to the youngsters, were present. Annual reports were read by the president, secretary, charmen of the order and entertainment and house committees, also the captain. Pres. Campbell read his report after the election was over.

The retiring secretary, J. Ashman Beaven, in his report expressed his heartfelt thanks for appreciations extended him by members during the nearly five years he has held the secretaryship.
