

Palamas and Wacs To Battle At "Y" Tonight In Championship Tilt

Title Goes To Waikikis If They Win—Otherwise There Will Be a Triple Tie

The championship title in the A. A. U. basketball league may be settled tonight when the Palamas and Waikiki Seniors come together in the Central Y. M. C. A. The game starts at 7:30 o'clock. Should the elder Wacs win theirs will be the title, but if they lose then there will be a triple tie for the championship, between the Waikikis, Palamas and Outriggers.

The Palamas threaten to wallop the Wacs and so sure are they of winning that they gave The Advertiser last night their lineup, which is as follows:

Charles Barboza and Samuel Kauka, forwards.

Arthur Parker, center.

H. Brito and Joseph Camacho, guards.

With such an array, says the Palama management, there can be nothing but victory for them. Palama can't really see how it could be otherwise. The Waikiki Seniors are mum, very mum, and will probably say and do what they have to say and do in the game tonight. The post mortem will come after the battle. The Wacs will line-up something like they have in their former games.
