

FREE FOOTBALL' SESSION FOR FANS ON SUNDAY AT MOILILI BALL PASTURE

Outriggers and Navy Will Put On an Excellent
Go With No Tax at the Gate—Game
Starts at Three O'clock

John Henry Public and his family are to get a treat on Sunday. The Outrigger and Navy teams will play at Moiliili on that day and no charge for admission will be made for men, women, children, dogs or motor cars. In other words, it will all be free.

This announcement comes as a result of the Navy team's not being able to play on Sunday for a game where admission is charged. When this ruling was explained to Captain Esmond Parker of the Outrigger team he immediately said, "Well, let's have 'em all come out anyway, and we'll find some way of raising the funds to pay off the officials for the game."

So there it is. Manager Beavens has donated the park, and the Pearl Harbor and Outrigger Clubs have donated the talent. The result is a good football game for the benefit of the public, and no one else.

Band on Hand

Before the start of the game, which opens up at 3 o'clock sharp, the Pearl Harbor band will probably dispense sweet strains of the latest jazz, under the direction of "Bandmaster Charlie Douglas.

The entire ewa side of the field will be fenced off and no one will be allowed on the playing side of the fence. A naval patrol will take care of this part of the festivities. The waikiki side will be, along with the makai end, spaced off for automobiles. Spaces will be numbered, and each car will be parked in the space corresponding to the number issued at the entrance to the field. Machines will enter at the King street gate, and the bleacherites will go in by way of the Isenberg street gate. Grandstanders and members of the sun-dodgers union will use the main entrance to the grandstand.

Officials for the game will be: Referee, Herman von Holt; umpire, W. J. Warner; head linesman, W. W. Paty; chief timer, Louis F. Stephens; attending physician, Dr. W. A. de Tuncq.
