

Slade May Call Signals Sunday For Surfriders

Jack Slade, head coach of Punahou during the past year, will probably play quarterback for the Outrigger Canoe club in the game against the Palama Settlement team next Sunday afternoon at Moiliili field. This has not been definitely announced, but it is the report that is floating around town. In any case, Slade, who looks like the logical man for the job, can be relied upon to carry the ball for gains while giving Stickney a rest.

The Outriggers will probably use Joe Stickney at one of the halfback positions and leave it to him to do much of the work of ground gaining. It has been a matter of surprise to many football fans in Honolulu that Coach Withington of the Outriggers has not used Stickney more. Stickney was the best ground gainer last year and is in fair physical condition this year and the fans are at a loss to understand why such a capable coach as Withington has overlooked this fleet runner.

Rest of 'Em

Jimmy Hart and Bill Hollinger will probably constitute the rest of the Outrigger Canoe club backfield which makes a strong combination against the Pals.

The Palama team is not contemplating any changes in the lineup and Makalena will be at quarter with Brash at fullback and Bent and K. Hipa in the secondary defense.

The front line trench will have Boyd at center, Huddy and Kanae at guards, McWayne and McKeague at tackle and Bromley and S. Hipa at the ends.

The Outrigger line will be a little stronger than in the last game as Bill Paty will be back at tackle. Withington will be the other tackle. Fuller and Thompson are on the ends and Hiorth and Kahanamoku are guards while Anderson will play center.
