

"DAD" CENTER WANTS REAL SWIMMING TANK

"Dad" Center, that live wire in athletic circles of the Outrigger Canoe Club, is out with a proposition to build a hundred-yard swimming tank out at the beach, near to the club and adjacent to the sea. He thinks $15,000 would just about turn the trick. The question is worth while considering for, outside of the sixty-foot tank at the Central Y. M. C. A., Honolulu is now practically without place for swimming races since the waterfront has been closed to the public, a condition which will prevail at least until the end of the war.
