

* * *

The water from the lagoon in the Outrigger Canoe Club grounds got loose Sunday night and tore through the sand barrier near the lanai, cutting a cliff where the beach was. A group of the club members got busy with shovels and surboards yesterday afternoon, built a dam and cut a channel straight to sea for the stream. The beach will probably get back in short order for the waves are ceaseless workers.

* * *