FIRST NIGHT OF FALL SWIMMING MEET PRODUCTIVE OF RECORDS

Norman Ross, Illinois Athletic club, established a new world record for 1000 yards. Time, 12:44.3. Former record of 12:52 made by B. B. Kieran in Sydney, February 12, 1905.

Warren Kealoha, Hui Makani, equalled the world record for the 100 yards back stroke. Time, 1:08.1. Record first established by Harold "Stubby" Kruger of St. Mary's college.

Norman Ross, Illinois Athletic club, established new American record for 880 yards. Time, 11:12.3. Former record was 11:27.

Frances Cowells Schroth, San Francisco, established new Pacific coast record for the 50 yards back stroke for ladies. Time, :40. Former record of :43 was made by same swimmer in San Diego in 1917.

Norman Ross, world champion middle distance swimmer, who broke one world's record and one American record Saturday night in the opening session of the fall swimming meet, will endeavor to shatter the world's record for the 440 yards tonight. Ludy Langer holds the present record of 5:17.3.

Frances Cowells, who broke her own record in the backstroke Saturday, will endeavor to establish a new record for the 50 yards women's open tonight. Fanny Durak holds the world's record at :29, and Dorothy Burns the Hawaiian record at :29.4.

The committee in charge expects a bigger crowd tonight than Saturday, and from the way the seats are selling it looks like their expectations will be realized.

Venerable swimming records went glimmering Saturday night, the first evening of the fall swimming meet in Honolulu harbor. Two visiting stars and Honolulu's greatest coming champion made swimming history that will be heard around the world.

One world record was smashed, another was equaled, and an American and a Pacific coast marks were beaten. As announced in the Star-Bulletin Friday, Norman Ross went after the world record for the 1000 yards. He got it, establishing a new time for the distance and beating that set by B. B. Kieran in Sydney February 12, 1905, by :07.2 and covering the distance in 12:44.3. Furthermore, he hung up a new American record for the 880 yards, making the route in 11:12.3, which is just :01.2 under the world record made by Kieran March 19, 1905, at Sydney. In making the new American record, Ross beat the old one by 14 2/5 seconds.

New Star

Honolulu took off its hat to a new champion when Warren Kealoha of the Hui Makani trimmed Harold "Stubby" Kruger in the century backstroke and furthermore equaled the world record of 1:08.1 made first by Kruger. It was a wonderful race. Kruger swam in the center path, while Kealoha had the outside ewa route. When the swimmers got away, Kruger toyed along, and though he glanced about, he thought himself leading the parade. Over within the shadows of the ewa piers, Kealoha with his smooth non-splashing stroke was moving rapidly and quietly. The cheering of the crowd aroused Kruger to the fact that something was amiss. After leaving the 50-yard line, the St. Mary's college boy found out and accordingly started the sprint that brought him within a yard and a half of the finish as Kealoha touched. Not satisfied with tying a world record and beating the mighty Kruger, Warren Kealoha entered the 50-yard open and finished second behind his brother, Pua Kealoha. Norman Ross, Illinois Athletic club, finished third, having hit a bad course in the going. This was one of the best races, but was somewhat marred through the several near starts before the lands got away.

Hurrah "Chapple"

Frances Cowells Schroth of San Francisco helped to make the first night of the meet a success by smashing her own Pacific coast record for the 50 yards backstroke for ladies. She covered this distance in :40 flat, thereby clipping :03 from her former record. This, despite the fact that the starter caught her napping. She led at the 25 yard mark. She might have broken the Hawaiian record in the century open had there been some competition. She covered the first 50 in :30 flat but slowed up at 75 and came in finally for 1:09.1. Agnes Auld of Palama finished second, some yards behind Mrs. Schroth but just a few inches ahead of Edith Kenn of the Hui Makani.

Welcome

Hilo figured in Saturday night's session of the fall swimming meet. Kuaaloha Keliipio, known as "The Fair Maid of Coconut Island," after swimming in four or five different directions and doing from five to eight yards more than necessary, finished first in the 50 yards girls' novice. Harriette Carter of the Outrigger was second and probably would have won but for the fact that her cap dropped over her eyes as she hit the water water starting. She swam blindfolded all the way but held a fairly true course.

The 440 yards service opened the evening. Feldman had it to himself. Benefield and Hensley fought it out from the 400 yard mark to the finish for third place with the latter winning. The 75 yard breast stroke was a good event. There were plenty of entries and there was plenty of fun. Joseph Gilman of the Hui Makani led John Kua, Jr., of the Healanis, Percy H. Nottage, treasurer of the meet, finished about fourth or fifth in the race.

Neat Diving

Little Bouldin Burbank was a favorite with the crowd in the novice spring-board diving for boys under 20 and the judges echoed popular sentiment in awarding him first prize.

Ludy Langer, official starter, had plenty of trouble in getting the boys under 13 away on their 40 yard race. The majority of the youngsters started too soon and did not hear the recall shots. They were given a 10 minute rest during which the 50 yards open for men was staged. Isami Matsuda won the boys' race by a narrow margin.

William Pua of the Healanis won the 220 yard for men's novice. Albert MacKinney of the Outrigger looked like a sure winner in the event but he ran into an incoming swimmer and lost his breath. This happened after reaching the 200 yard mark. In the service relay, the Coast Artillery Corps had it all over the visitors from Pearl Harbor.

Big Crowd

According to rough estimate the attendance is placed at from 3500 to 4000. It was an orderly crowd and the exceptions were notified that their actions would not be tolerated. The first event was started a little before 8 o'clock and the last was finished before quarter past 10. The program was run off in a neat and snappy manner which means satisfied fans.
