

MEMBERSHIP OF SURFERS GROWS

QUESTION OF SALARIES DEBATED

Steady growth in membership during the last year is shown by the annual report of Secretary Allan Podmore of the Outrigger Canoe club, made at last night's annual meeting.

The club's total membership, including seniors and juniors, is now 741, an increase of 139 over last year. The number of senior members (adults) is now 600, a gain of 84, and the number of juniors (boys) is 141, an increase of 55 over last year.

Guest Increase

Guest cards issued during the year were 581, a gain of 237. Guests in good standing at the close of the year were 125, a gain of 68 persons.

During the year eight senior members of the club died, their names being George Andrus, Dr. H. V. Murray, J. J. Belser, Norman E. Gedge, W. H. Hoogs, J. M. Riggs, J. H. Schnack and C. H. Trullinger.

club office has been to its members," says Secretary Podmore. A vote of thanks was given by the members present to the secretary, treasurer and President Warren Dease for their untiring efforts in behalf of the club during the last year. Their good work resulted in their reelection for the coming year.

Salaries

The question of an increase in pay for the club's Japanese employes was brought up. Those present seemed to think more money should be given the men owing to the increase in the cost of living and the long hours Sasaki and his assistants have to work, sometimes putting in as long as 12 and 16 hours on busy days. They have to work seven days a week as well, getting no Sundays off.

Dan E. Mooney, who was reelected vice president, paid a tribute to the work of "Dad" Center, and said that the athletic showing made during the year is one of which Honolulu should be proud. He called attention to the fact that every member of the Outrigger swimming team placed in the Olympic try-outs, and most of them are now on their way to Antwerp to uphold the reputation of Hawaii at the coming games.
