

Outing Magazine Prints Series of Hawaii Articles

The Outing-Recreation magazine is shortly to print the fourth of a series of articles on the aquatic sports of Hawaii, written by Florence M. Davison, who was a visitor in the Islands in 1918, and is now in Colorado Springs where she recently recovered from a severe illness.

The last article printed, on outrigger surf-riding, appears in the September number of the magazine. It is illustrated with pictures of the Outrigger clubhouse, Alexander Hume Ford and Jack London, the beach and Diamond Head, and of the launching of a canoe by "Dad" Center and crew.

In a letter to George T. Armitage, secretary of the Hawaii Tourist Bureau, the author says:

"After a wonderful two years in Hawaii, the articles were written as an aloha to Honolulu."

Another of the articles is an enthusiastic description of big game fishing in the Island waters.
