

Expect Records To Be Recorded At "Y" Tonight

Several tank records are expected to fall tonight in the opening card of the December meet at the "Y" tank when the Hawaiian Olympic swimming team will appear in action for the first time since its trip to Europe for the seventh Olympiad.

The first race on the program is the 220 yards men's open. Ross has made the distance in the local tank in 2:20.3 while W. W. Harris, Jr. has covered it in 2:26.

One of the races which should be a feature tonight is that of the 100 yards women's open. Marlechen Wehselau, Outrigger Canoe club swimmer, holds the record at 1:11.4.

The 100 yards men's backstroke will bring out Warren Kealoha, world champion, and Harold "Stubby" Kruger, former champion. Kealoha holds the local tank record of 1:11.3.

Ruth Scudder holds the record for the 50 yards women's breaststroke, having made the distance last December in :43.1. She will race in this event tonight.

The women's plunge for distance is scheduled tonight. Helen Rosa of the Outrigger club won the event last April and set a record of 50 feet 7 inches.
