

Here are a few shots taken by The Star-Bulletin cameraman at the Kamehameha Day canoe paddling regatta on the Ala Wai yesterday afternoon. More than 10,000 persons lined the two sides of the canal to view the day's events, which were won by the Outrigger Canoe club athletes. No. 1 shows three of the fair spectators at the affair. From the left they are Margery Nowell, Elaine Henig and Anita Quintero. No. 2 is the judges' boat, with Duke F. Kahanamoku sitting on the bow. No. 3 and 4 show the crews that featured in a dead heat. No. 3 is the Honolulu girls' crew. Reading from left: Edith Norton, Kamala Kekahuna, Mae Scott, Thelma Ludwig, Bealant Fuller and Chubby Simmons. No. 4 is the Outrigger Canoe club. From the left they are: Barbara Schleif, Olga Clarke, Irene Hupal, Momi Houston, Catherine Maertens and Margaret Flooy. No. 5 shows a portion of the crowd in front of the new bathhouse, McCully St. and Ala Wai.—Star-Bulletin photos.
