

Big Entry

ter its whole team as all of the swimmers are not in shape, their work hindering some of them from training properly.

To become accustomed to the University tank, in which the meets will be held, all the teams that will vie for honors, work out once or twice every week in that pool. According to reports, all the teams are shaping up nicely, and by time the trials are held all the swimmers will be in tip-top condition and primed for gruelling and hard fought races.

MUST REGISTER

Swimmers who plan to enter the meet are requested to register with the A. A. U. immediately if they have not done so as yet. A new ruling has been passed by the A. A. U. making it compulsory for every athlete to be registered a week before the entries close for any amateur athletic event, in which he
