

Kealakekua To Be Mecca For Record Crowd Jul. 28

That little grass shack at Kealakekua, and the wahines and the kanes, to say nothing of the humuhumu-nukunukuapua'a are going to get such a visitation, on July 28, as they have never known in all their history.

The second annual outrigger canoe championship races have been definitely set for that day, and from all appearances a bigger throng than even the thousands who attended the affair last year, from all sections of the territory, will be on hand.

It is almost certain that at least 11 naval vessels will visit Kealakekua bay for the big celebration this year, and there is a possibility that a number of the yachts competing in the trans-Pacific race will make the Kona coast their objective for a pleasure jaunt.

The Kona Civic Club is again sponsoring the race classic, and extends an invitation to all the Islands to participate.

MACFARLANE HEAD

At a recent meeting of the club, attended by "Dad" Center of the Outrigger Canoe club and Stanley Kennedy of Honolulu, it was decided that all plans be left in the hands of the executive committee of the club. Louis Macfarlane has again
