

Kona's Regatta Saturday

Kona for the regatta Saturday!

Hundreds of persons from Hilo will join thousands from other sections of the Big Island and the territory in helping Kona celebrate her second annual outrigger canoe regatta.

Last year the regatta was staged for the first time, an experiment to see whether or not the old sports festival of Hawaii could be revived and especially could it be revived in Kona. So enthusiastically was the event greeted by the people of the islands that eating, sleeping and other facilities of Kona were overtaxed. But everyone who attended had a mighty good time and plans to go again.

This year, judging from advance enthusiasm, the crowd at Kona August 4 will be even greater than a year ago. But this year, according to members of the Kona Civic Club, visitors will find ample arrangements made for their comfort.

Kona is out to see that every detail runs off smoothly. And Kona will do exactly that. Saturday will be a big day for Kona and a big time for all who attend.
