

Waikiki Night Spectacle Planned for Fleet Visitors

Thursday evening May 30 will be something unique in aquatics in Hawaii. On that evening the Outrigger Canoe Club is sponsoring a night spectacle at Waikiki. Through the courtesy of the adjacent forts, huge army searchlights will flood the waters at Waikiki simulating daylight. Many of Hawaii's best known and expert swimmers, surf board riders and canoe paddlers will give a demonstration for the entertainment of the officers and personnel of the visiting fleet.

Preceding this exhibition a beach dinner will be served on the lanai of the club to members of the Outrigger club and their guests only. The committee on arrangements and serving dinner is headed by Mrs. Doris Stephens. Mark Westgate is in charge of decorations. George Perry is general chairman.

Well known swimmers of Honolulu have been asked to participate and the Waikiki Beach Patrol have agreed to take charge of surfing activities. This spectacle will be something different that not only our fleet visitors will enjoy but that the public will take an interest in.

Many club members have expressed their intention of making up swimming, surfing and canoe parties during the evening and the committee in charge propose if possible, the surf being right to take members and guests for canoe rides, an unique experience to most.

Les Osberg is in charge of ticket sales and attendance. Sales, he said, would close Wednesday, the 29th, at noon.

LECTURES ON WHALES

Bygone whaling practice was the subject of a lecture and three reels of movies presented last night in Farrington hall by Capt. George T. Plummer, authority on the subject. The lecture which began at 8 p.m. included colored slides of whaling gear, as well as the movies which depicted an entire whaling expedition from the time of start until the return to port.
