

Hui Nalu, Queen's Surf and the new hui, the Beach Patrol. When the boys get into action it is the old spirit of "give till it hurts."

Preliminary trials were held Sunday afternoon when the boys went through a few races with the new canoes they received from Kona Saturday morning. The response has assured the beach moguls that the populace is all set for more—and on a bigger scale. Either next week or the week after there will be a big water carnival.

Sunday , afternoon when the initial trials were held with the new canoes it was proved there is certainly going to be a lot of competition. The Hui Nalu cleaned up with the Beach Patrol grabbing second honors. However, it might be noted that every race was won by the same canoe. That canoe is the latest addition to the Honolulu fleet. It has every other canoe beat by a Waikiki blonde.
