Talk in the air now is about moving the Outrigger club. This old landmark's lease is about to expire in a few years. However, I hear on good authority that they have an option to renew their lease. They most likely will have their lease renewed, but the directors in kokua spirit with the Royal Hawaiian, have under consideration a plan to move the club over a few feet where the Uluniu club now reposes. It will give the hotel more room on the side nearest the canoe sheds. As to the famed volleyball courts, auwe!
