at noon today, according to Cecil G. Benny, committee secretary.

The meeting will give every consideration to suggestions brought by Yates concerning certain changes in the present layout of the racing lanes.

Present at the meeting also will be Abe Koluko and Henry Blake, representatives of Kauai's junior and senior crews, who have been in town for some time making arrangements for the transportation of the Kauai delegation of 182 which will be present for the regatta, Charles K. Amalu, committee chairman, said.

The Kauai crews themselves will arrive Sunday, while the Kailua and Milolii crews from Kona are due in Honolulu Monday morning. On that night representatives of all competing crews will meet with the regatta committee in a final conference on the order of events during the big day.

son, a great-granddaughter of Capt. James Makee and a member of one of Honolulu's pioneer families.

Kauai's paddlers to make the trip are: Seniors—John Cummings, stroke; Ernest Kinney, Arthur Kinney, George Lemon, David Hulihee, and James Kimokeo; substitutes, John I. and George K. Hoopii.

Juniors — Lawrence Hamakua, stroke; Bernard Blake, Paul Puni, Joseph Kaohi, Jr., John Mahu, Keli Aka; substitutes, Louis Hamakua, Henry Puni.

The two crews are being coached by Deputy Sheriff Antone Vidinha, Jr., of Koloa.

The two Kauai crews have been practicing every day at beautiful Lawai beach during the past two weeks. The canoe they are using now is an old outrigger, estimated at about 50 years old. It was first owned by the Rice family. It was later bought by Alexander McBryde and is now owned by John Nishi, who uses it for fishing.

Lack of suitable paddles was one of the setbacks encountered on Kauai, but new ones have been obtained. The boys expect to use Charlie Amalu's light canoe in the races in Honolulu.
