

and children going forth from their familiar squand surroundings to new places contains much pathos and strikes at the hearts of more fortunate persons.

There are hundreds of little children in Honolulu who are consigned to such existence. A kinder order of living is moving toward better things for them, but the process is slow. Momentary happiness can and will be provided for most of them through such efforts as The Advertiser's Santa Claus and similar agencies working to bring Christmas cheer where it might not penetrate of its own accord. Cast-off toys and other things will do a great deal of good. Everyone should help Santa Claus.

Valuable Institution Preserved

The Outrigger Canoe club is assured of existence in its present home for another quarter of a century. A lease has been signed for that period of time with certain modifications in the boundaries of the club's area of control. The beach frontage and most of the recreational facilities will be retained so that the functions of this famous organi-

This is good news. The Outrigger club is justly famous with thousands of tourists for its part in Waikiki beach activities and it is a valuable adjunct to local athletic life. Waikiki beach could continue without it, but it would be a different Waikiki. Many things will happen in beach and travel development during the next 25 years and it is encouraging to know that the Outrigger club will be in the center.
