

Paddlers To Race Sunday

Tandem Surfboard Com- pet Will Be Staged At Beach

To start off the weekly water sports program there will be a surfboard paddling race Sunday at the beach. This will be a tandem race on twelve-foot tandem surfboards in which the wahine and beach boy will be on the same board. There is a great deal of rivalry between Tarzan Smith, Allan Love and Tommy Kiakona and a hot contest is expected. A handsome medal for the boy and a beautiful compact for the wahine are the prizes in this race.

Following this race there will be surfboard water polo between the Waikiki Beach Patrol and the Queen's Surfriders. The Beach Patrol, following their defeat at the hands of the aggressive Hui Nalu team, is out to win, and the Queen's Surfriders are also anxious to keep their record clean after winning from the Outrigger bunch Sunday. This should be a contest well worth watching.

At half time there will a canoe race between the various beach clubs for kids only. This means that none of the contestants may be over fifteen years of age. As a reward in this contest the Hind-Clarke Dairy has donated a gallon of ice cream.

As usual the Royal Hawaiian Hotel will provide seats and shade on the Royal Terrace for the guests of the Hotels. The public is invited.
