

Pat Flanigan to Manage New Outrigger Canoe Club

Appointment of W. J. "Pat" Flanigan as manager of the Outrigger Canoe Club, effective May 1, was announced yesterday by Walter J. Macfarlane, president of the organization.

"In Mr. Flanigan we feel we have made an excellent selection," said Mr. Macfarlane. "Not only has he had extensive hotel management experience, but for years he was associated with Howarth & Howarth, nationally-known public accountants specializing in hotel business. As manager of the

Army Planes 'Enemy' Craft In War Drill

A limited number of warplanes from the 18th Wing will participate as "enemy" aircraft during noted Escambron Beach Club in Puerto Rico, Mr. Flanigan gained invaluable experience for his position with the Outrigger Canoe Club. While in Puerto Rico he also was director of programs for the Institute of Tourism.

"Mr. Flanigan comes to the Outrigger with a first-hand knowledge of Island conditions and Island people, having been associated with the Alexander Young hotel as both assistant and acting manager there. With our extensive building program ready to start, Mr. Flanigan will personally supervise details and prepare the club for its gala opening.

"Louis E. Haehlen, long associated with the Outrigger, will become assistant to Mr. Flanigan. In addition, he will devote much of his time to building up the junior membership division, as well as supervising regular beach activities.

"John C. Shipp, who has ably and enthusiastically handled the promotion activities in financing of the new building and increasing membership to the point where the club's future is assured, has completed his work. Mr. Shipp will retire from his position May 1."