dent of the club, has offered a silver cup for the winner of this latest resurrection of an old Outrigger pastime. It is offered in open competition.

The open surfriding competition in which entries are invited with no restrictions will have a gold surfboard as a prize. Dawkins-Benny has offered it as first prize together with a silver medal for second and a bronze medal for coming in third. This is an event in which surfriding skill is paramount. The course is from the beach out to the surf and from there catching a wave to shore. The first to touch shore is declared winner. Entries for this event are solicited from non-members as well as bona fide Outrigger clubmen.

Fred Kingman has offered a new trophy, a girl surfrider mounted on a modernistic pedestal for the girls' surfriding competition. The same rules that prevail for the men's event hold for the girls' competition.

A six man canoe race, a four man canoe race as well as a six man canoe tug of war are also scheduled for the beach's Kamehameha Day frolic. Gold medals will be given the winning crews of all these events.

In the volleyball tournament playoffs for the club's annual championship, doubles as well as six men team championships will be held. Both semi-finals and finals will be played.

During the beach activities Melim's will install their public address system so that the public will be apprised at all times of the day's doings. Harold Harvey will man the mike.

Sally Hale, captain of the Beach Patrol, together with Herb Fox and Tom Blake are in charge of the beach sports. Wilfred Godbold is running the volleyball tourney.
