

Surfboard Sailing Races Slated Sunday At Waikiki

Due to the high surf prevailing on Kamehameha Day, the race for sailing surfboards was postponed. The entrants believed that they would be unable to control their delicately balanced boards and sails, and thought that the high waves might break their equipment.

Following the system of past races, a series of handicaps has been worked out to give all entrants an equal chance, as some of the boys have more sail area or better balanced and faster boards.

Torrid Race Looms

The course will be laid out under the supervision of Tom Blake and Gordon Fischer with the cooperation of the Waikiki Beach Patrol which will use one of its canoes to set the course markers. The race is expected to be hotly contested by the following entrants: Charles Carvalho, Christopher Weight, Aldon Pettengill, Gordon Fischer, and Tom Blake.

The time of the race has been set at 10:00 a.m. Sunday, and it will start and finish in the front of the Beach Patrol office where the spectators will have the best view of the contest. To the winner will go the Walter Macfarlane trophy.

EXCESS ACIDITY

of the Stomach makes you feel

MISERABLE