

Final Canoe Races Monday

Sailing Outriggers Com- pete for Grand Prize Off Waikiki Beach

The final event in the series of outrigger canoe sailing races will take place off Waikiki Beach at 10 a.m. on Labor day. The stake in this race will be the Tommy Kearns trophy and the grand prize, the Royal Hawaiian trophy will go to the canoe capturing the highest number of points in the series.

The 'Ka Moi' entered by the Waikiki Beach Patrol will strive to repeat her victories of the past two Sundays, and her crew is busily engaged in trimming her up for the contest. Doris Duke Cromwells "Lahilahi" with Sam Kahanamoku as skipper will again be in the race. Sam had hard luck in the last race when some of his rigging gave away, but repairs have been made and all is in readiness for the race.

The other canoes have been tuning up all week to get every last bit of speed possible out of their rigs, and a real hot and exciting contest is expected for the Labor Day crowd.
