to be at her son's bedside.

Funeral services will be conducted in Oakland at 3:30 p. m. today (Pacific War Time) at the Halstead mortuary. The body will be cremated and the ashes will be brought to Honolulu by Mr. Macfarlane's father.

It was announced here yesterday that the Outrigger Canoe Club, of which Mr. Macfarlane was president for a number of years, will hold memorial services at 9 a. m. Sunday. The services will be held at the clubhouse at Waikiki beach with the Rev. Henry P. Judd officiating. Elmer Lee's Hawaiian troupe of musicians will play during the services.

Mr. Macfarlane was born in Honolulu on Sept. 5, 1907, and was 36 years of age. He received his early education in Honolulu and at the Menlo high school in Palo Alto. He was a graduate of the University of Hawaii, where he starred as fullback on the football team.

He was vice president of Bowman, Holst, Macfarlane and Richardson, advertising concern having offices in Honolulu and San Francisco.

In 1934 Mr. Macfarlane entered politics, running for the House of Representatives from the fourth district on the Republican ticket. Party leaders yesterday expressed regret at the news of his death and a message of condolence was sent by radio to the family members in Oakland.

Served from 1935 to 1941

Mr. Macfarlane served in the legislature in the 1935, 1937, 1939 and the 1942 regular and special sessions. He ran for reelection in 1942 but was defeated by a narrow margin.

Mr. Macfarlane was the grandson of the late James Campbell, noted Island capitalist and industrial leader. He was a nephew of Princess Abigail Kawananakoa and of Mrs. Beatrice Wrigley and Mrs. Charles Amalu. In addition to members of the family with him at the time of his death, Mr. Macfarlane is survived by another sister, Mrs. Kala Speck and a brother, Wyatt Macfarlane, both at present in Honolulu.

Mr. Macfarlane and Miss Audrey Hughes were married in Las Vegas, N. M., on Nov. 30, 1941.

As a member of the legislature Mr. Macfarlane was interested greatly in legislation to benefit the lot of the native Hawaiian youth, sponsoring many worthwhile measures to aid this ideal. In 1939 he headed a special legislative committee appointed to investigate the high cost of fish in the Territory. He served in 1941 and 1942 as a member of the legislative holdover committee appointed to make a survey of various governmental problems, including civil service and the proposed expansion of harbor facilities throughout the territory.

As president of the Outrigger Canoe Club Mr. Macfarlane headed the program leading to the construction of the new $85,000 clubhouse at Waikiki in 1941.
