

Plan Pictures Of Surfing Program

By MICKEY MAPA

So colorful is the 1943 version of the Hawaii Surfing and Paddling championships expected to be, that the Army has authorized Maj. Boyer and his signal corps cameramen to be on hand with news reel and still cameras to record the traditional Hawaiian classic.

This information was well received by the Hawaii Surfing association, the Outrigger Canoe club and the Honolulu Junior Chamber of Commerce in view of the fact that Cameraman Len H. Roos of Pathe News who had originally been assigned to cover the aquatic events, has unexpectedly been transferred elsewhere.

* * *
The cameras will capture for the screen the Hawaiians' ability to harness the power and speed of the breakers with their surfboards and canoes—an art known the world over as originating here at Waikiki.

* * * HEAD PROGRAM

"Turkey" Love, outstanding surfboard artist, and Gene (Tarzan) Smith, whose finesse with the paddle board makes him a nationally known sports figure, will headline

U. S. Fighters Beat British

LONDON, June 11. (U.P.)—United States army glove tossers defeated British army boxers six bouts to five last night for the army boxing championship of the British Isles.

Pvt. Vincent Cocak of Hazelton, Pa., won the heavyweight title, defeating Bombardier George Preston of the Commandos. There was no argument on that decision, though both the British and Americans thought some of the others were questionable.

---

the individual events of the day. Because of the interest which the service men have shown in surfing and canoeing, there will be a special event involving a representative team from each one of the army and navy recreation centers. Hawaiian beach boys will captain their outriggers through the surf.

Then the championship outrigger canoe races, reminiscent of the invasion days when King Kamehameha and his warriors paddled from island to island on their conquests, should put a fitting climax to the events of the day.

Remember the day—June 13.