

Canoe Regatta

OCC Paddlers Favored For Repeat Wins

Army, Hui Nalus To Challenge Club's Supremacy

Outrigger Canoe Club's crack paddlers loomed strong favorites to capture major honors in the Walter Macfarlane Memorial canoe races today off Waikiki beach. The Army and the Hui Nalus will challenge OCC's supremacy in the paddling races.

Sponsored by the Outrigger, the regatta will begin at 10 a.m. and all races will be close enough to shore so spectators will have a maximum view of the events.

Ten events are on the program, including a Canoe tug o' war, a two-crew relay which will be the day's finale, and a six-paddle race for men over 40 years of age.

* * *

There'll be senior races in the two-paddle, six paddle and four-paddle, and junior events in the six-paddle and two-paddle. A women's six-paddle race with a male steersman and a six-paddle race for boys under 14 round out the program.

* * *

The OCC crews which won the senior six, the senior four, the senior two, the junior six, and the junior four in the Kamehameha Day regatta are favored to repeat in these events. Hui Nalu has lost the Young brothers to the Army but still looms strong in all the events.

Outrigger paddlers will include Tom Arnot, Aaron Chaney, Jimmy Pflueger, Turkie Love, Elwood Van Gieson, William Iretton, James Dowsett, T. Kiakona, bell and T/5 Daniel Kapuniaia.

(Continued on Page 15)