

OUTRIGGER CANOE CLUB

member A. E. Minvielle has struck upon an idea, which he believes has good merits—an outrigger canoe race from Molokai to Oahu, a distance to cover about 35 miles.

According to his plan, the canoes can be shipped to Molokai and start their race about 5 a. m. Estimating about five miles each hour, Minvielle figures the canoes would be coming into Waikiki about noon.

He is proposing this as an annual affair. He already has written to Mel McGuire, Molokai businessman; and to George Cooke, in charge of Cooke interests on the Friendly Isle.
