

WAIKIKI SURF CLUB NOTES

By ELIZABETH PASKOWITZ

The Waikiki Surf club's rescue squad proved its mettle by being among the first to arrive and assist the passengers aboard the sightseeing craft Hele Hauoli that ran aground offshore the Natatorium Thursday night.

Elmer Lee's emergency call to John Lind, club president, brought the rescue squad into quick action.

Wally Froiseth, captain of the squad, Samson Kekai and John Apo steered the two outrigger canoes owned by Elmer Lee and Russ Takaki that carried the stranded passengers to shore.

Stewart Boyd, H. B. J. Perry, Chris Bode, James De Caires, Francis Ohara and John Lind directed the shuttling of the canoes between shore and the Hele Hauoli and assisted the passengers as they came ashore.

Members of the Outrigger Canoe club, John Hollinger, Neil Ifverson, Tommy Arnott and two outside volunteers, Pete Slate and Ralph Yost did equal share in the rescue work with two of the Outrigger club's canoes.

Last Wednesday night the Surf club had as its guest, "Toots" Minvielle of the Outrigger Canoe club.

Mr. Minvielle spoke about plans for a 35 mile canoe race to be held between Molokai and Honolulu. The race is tentatively scheduled for July.

Further plans will be discussed by the directors of the two clubs within the month.
