Surfboard riding and outrigger service at the Outrigger in surfing canoeing are perhaps best-known of Hawaii's year 'round water sports. Waikiki is the surfing center of the islands although the sport is available at several other island beaches.

The Outrigger Canoe club at Waikiki has Hawaii's greatest colfection of boards.

Upright surfboard lockers are filled with more than 200 boards of all sizes and colors. Averaging 75 pounds, boards are usually made of redwood, cedar, pine or balsa wood. The famous "beach boys" of Waikiki under Louis (Sally)

Surfing is vigorous exercise, requiring endurance and long hours of practice. Catching and riding a wave in is only a minor, albeit thrilling, part of the preliminary work of paddling a board out to

It takes skillful handling and strength to pull against the tide. Maneuvering is tricky to keep from being swamped when out in breaker territory.

Quick thinking to prevent being knocked out by a board upturned by a wave is part of this sport. Finally, judgment of the wave that will provide a ride of one, two or 300 yards is the climax. It is advisable for the newcomer in earnest about mastering the sport to take it in easy strides. There are gentler waves close to shore where the inexperienced may practice and get the feel of
