

CANOE CREWS ARE GETTING IN SHAPE FOR SUMMER RACES

Waikiki Surf club canoe crews have been in training for the past six weeks in preparation for the summer canoe racing events.

The surf club training canoe, Lanakila, recently was obtained through the assistance of Julian Yates and the Honolulu fire department from the Kona coast.

It has been kept busy with as many as 50 club members training daily under the supervision of surf club coaches.

The surf club racing canoe, Malia, credited as being one of the finest outrigger canoes in the Hawaiian islands, has been completely reconditioned by club members.

CHOY SUPERVISED

Rudy Choy, one of the builders of the Manukai, first catamaran at Waikiki, supervised the conditioning of the Malia. She is the proudest possession of surf club members.

Coaches Wallace Froiseth and Baldwin (Blue) Makua, who were responsible for the outstanding crews for the past two years, are presently on the island of Eniwetok and will not be in competition this year.

The surf club is fortunate in having had well trained crews in the past two years—as a result the decision for seats in the various crews this year is a difficult one.

Noa Kalama, who paddled in one of the crews last year, is also on Eniwetok.

DONATES CASE

Abel Gomes, who was elected a new director at the last special meeting, donated a trophy case for the club's mountings of silver-trimmed calabashes, plaques, cups, and medals.

Surf club emblems recently received from a mainland manufacturer are now being used by all members on their trunks and swim suits.
