Bid To Organize Outrigger Blocked By NLRB Ruling

Thirty-one employes of the Outrigger Canoe club remained non-union Thursday with a decision handed down by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) regional director in San Francisco sustaining the original dismissal.

HOTEL, RESTAURANT and Bartenders Union, Local 5, AFL, last July asked for certification as the bargaining agent claiming to represent all employes in the Outrigger bar, dining room and kitchen including maintenance employes and parking boys.

THE PETITION was dismissed by NLRB on the grounds the Outrigger is a private club, a non-profit organization and not in commerce. The regional director was then sent an appeal through the union attorney, Thomas Gill.
