

Colony Surf is the proposed name for this 144-unit waterfront co-operative apartment to be built on an approximately 25,000 square foot site next to the Outrigger Canoe Club's new location opposite Kapiolani Park on Kalakaua Avenue. John W. Foltz and John Barkhorn, the developers, plan to build this and the Cavalier in central Waikiki at the same time. Cost of the two is estimated at about $5 million. Depending on demand, the Colony Surf may be increased from 12 to 18 stories before work begins this spring. Edwin L. Bauer is the architect.
