

Outrigger Rejects New Avent Offer

The Outrigger Canoe Club has turned down California businessman John V. Avent's latest offer to stay at its present site, according to Outrigger President R. Q. Smith.

The club plans to build a $750,000 clubhouse at the Elks Club.

Avent's company, International Building, has an option on the lease of the present Outrigger site and plans to build a multi-million dollar apartment building.

The Outrigger lease expires in 1963.
