

Valleho tops surfers

Channon Valleho captured three events yesterday to steal the spotlight in the Aloha Moana Surfing Championships.

Vallejo, a Kaimuki High School graduate performing in 3-4 foot waves, won the junior men's, kneeboard and the super heat.

Also, winning the women's division was all-around Evie Black, who earlier during the day paddled for Outrigger in the Dads Center long distance canoe race and Saturday paddled in the state canoe meet.

The Hawaii Surfing Association benefit luau, to raise funds to send the Islands' best surfers to the U.S. championships, will be held Thursday at the Blaisdell Exhibition hall from 5 to midnight. Cost is $15.
