FORMER PUNAHOU track flash Jimmy Hutchinson, whose wife, Linda, paddles for Lanikai and whose daughter, Kelly, is on the Outrigger Canoe Club squad, called to say that Lanikai was second in the makule (oldtimer) event in the Walter Macfarlane races, not Waikiki Surf Club as I had it last Sunday. So much for my makule race source. And Lanikai had two women—Barbara Bamford and Louise Wooden—in its makule crew. Rounding out the Lanikai six were Alan Wooddell, stroke, Jim Mooney, Bob Cooper and steersman Paul Gay. What's more, Don Fowler, who was pulled away from the Moana Hotel Terrace to round out the Waikiki Surf Club crew, says WSC should have won the race but steersman Wally Froiseth had to swerve away from another boat to avoid damaging WSC's famed koa canoe, Malia. Others in the Surf Club boat were Rabbit Kekai at stroke, Kappy Vickery, Chris Bode and Archie Kaaua. When winning Outrigger steersman Fred Hemmings saw that bunch at the start, he joked: "That's got to be the ugliest crew in the world." Hearing that, Fowler, who admits to falling out of his canoe seat during the race, responded verbally and the men in the Malia paddled with even more vigor. But Outrigger's crew—stroker Hank Lass, Jack Mattice, Kim Woolaway, John Beaumont, Linc Scaff and Hemmings—was victorious. The makule event, for paddlers over 50, with the exception of steersman who can be any age, is a fun event and there may be another today in the John D. Kaupiko races at Waikiki Beach . . .

SPLASHING ALONG: Retired lifeguard chief and 1948 Olympic 400-meter freestyle champion Bill Smith and wife, Peaches, walked into Ryan's Parkplace at Ward Centre last Sunday and were surprised to see Malia Cockett, one of Bill's former swimmers at Kamehameha, in charge of the dining floor. The Smiths were cruising after watching son, Riley, take part in the Tinman Triathlon. Peaches, who gave her son her maiden name of Riley, is known for her haku lei-making expertise . . .

Downstairs, looking in on the sale at the busy Ralph Lauren Polo shop, were John Bowen, who has designed the interiors of many local restaurants, and his artist wife, Dottie. Marianne Harris, who was secretary to ex-Auditoriums Dept. head, Hazel Inouye, was also in the Polo crowd . . . Those of us who worked with photographer Jack Matsumoto, when he was with the Star-Bulletin so many years, were saddened to learn of his death on Wednesday. Jack, who was 71, was a friendly, dedicated professional and was always ready to lend a helping hand. He will be missed . . .
